RUSS MOVING TOWARD PLAINS OF HUNGARY

BATTLE OF CARPATHIANS APPARENTLY OVER ON ONE FRONT

Movement May Compel Teutonic Allies to Retire—First Phase of Battle of the Woevre Has Seemingly Terminated — Submarines Again Active.

London, April 12—(10:30 p. m.)—With the capture by the Russians of almost all the main chain of mountains, the battle of the Carpathians, which has lasted upward of eighty days, is apparently reaching a termination over one extensive front and the Russians are said to be moving at various points by railways and roads and along the rivers and streams down the southern slopes toward the plains of Hungary.

May Compel Teutons to Retire.

This movement, if it continues successfully, will in the view of the Russian military authorities compel the retirement with little or no fighting, of the Austrians and Germans who are still north of the Carpathians, to the east of Uzsok Pass and in eastern Galicia and Bukowina.

The battle which has been thus successfully conducted by the Russians was, from all accounts, one of the fiercest of the war and the manner in which the Russians overcame the difficulties of mountain fighting in mid-winter has been the subject of praise by those who witnessed the operations or are acquainted with the country traversed.

Watch for Joffre's Next Move.

The first phase of the battle of the Woevre also apparently has come to an end and interest now centers on the next move of General Joffre, the French commander, in his effort to compel the Germans to release their hold on St. Mihiel and that part of the plain of the Woevre included in their wedge. The capture of Les Eparges was, in the opinion of British military critics, a long step in the direction desired by the allies, but they place even more importance on the advance from Regniville toward Thiaucourt in the south as the latter town is a railway center from which the force at St. Mihiel draws its supplies.

This battle has not as yet proved the prelude to a general offensive in the west, as was expected. This probably due to the fact that, instead of moving troops from other points along the line to assist the army of the Woevre the Germans have brought their reinforcements from the interior of Germany or perhaps right from the eastern front and consequently the situation remains comparatively quiet on the western front.

Submarines Showing Activity.

German submarines again have been showing activity and besides the Harpalyce, which according to one member of her crew and the officers of another steamer, was torpedoed, they have attacked since Saturday night the British Liner Wayfarer, the French Steamer Frederic Franck and the little Steamer Pdesident.

The Wayfarer reached Queenstown in a sinking condition; the Frederic Franck was towed into Plymouth and the President was still afloat when her crew of ten left her. The mystery of the North Sea firing on Wednesday night last, remains unsolved so far as the general public is concerned.

WILL FURNISH TRAIN FOR THOSE DESIRING TO QUIT MEXICO CITY

Carranza Informs Consul Silliman of Decision—Order Transport to Tampico to Bring Foreigners to United States.

Washington, April 12.—General Carranza informed American Consul Silliman at Vera Cruz today that he would furnish a train for Americans desiring to leave Mexico City. He will permit a passenger train from Vera Cruz to proceed as far as Ometusco, forty miles east of Mexico City where the Americans would be picked up. The first chief asked to be notified as to the number of Americans expecting to leave and the time they wish the train to be ready.

Many Americans and foreigners in Tampico similarly are planning to leave as soon as transportation arrangements can be made. Secretary Bryan sought the aid of the war department today and the transport Sumner at Galveston was ordered to Tampico to bring back the 300 or more foreigners.

FREDERICK WILL RESIGN.

St. Louis, April 12—A. H. Frederick, who was elected president of the Board of Aldermen last week and whose alleged fraudulent real-estate transactions are being investigated by the grand jury, announced tonight that he would resign from the presidency of the board.

VOTE TO SUPPORT LOCKOUT.

Chicago, April 12—The Illinois society of architects, having 300 members in Cook county, voted today to support the Building Employers' association in a lockout voted against unions which permitted their agreements with the association to expire.

WESTERN UNION HEAD BELIEVES OPERATORS ARE UNDER PAID

Newcomb Carlton Causes Mild Sensation at Industrial Relations Hearing—Says First Class Man Should Make $5 Per Day.

Chicago, April 12.—President Newcomb Carlton of the Western Union Telegraph Company and S. J. Konenkamp, president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, testified from their respective viewpoints before the United States commission on industrial relations today the wages and working conditions of the commercial telegraphers.

Mr. Carlton caused a mild sensation when, replying to a question from Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the commission as to whether telegraphers were adequately compensated, replied:

"I believe that the telegraphers are underpaid."

"Overpaid!" excloaimed Mr. Walsh.

Ought to Make More.

"No, under paid. I think they ought to make more money than they do. So far as I can ascertain wages have increased thirty per cent in the last ten years. Ten years ago a Morse telegrapher received $18; it is now $23. It was $13.50 for women and it is now $18. My own view is that a first class telegrapher should be able to earn at least five dollars a day of nine hours. Some of our employes under the so-called premium plan are making close to that."

The witness stated that his company has one of the best pension and relief organizations in the country and it costs the men nothing. Half a million dollars was expended on it last year, he said.

"I do not mention this as a substitute for pay, nothing can take the place of that; it is merely our contribution to society and it is good business," said Mr. Carlton.

The witness' opposition to the organization headed by Mr. Konenkamp who followed him on the stand was made plain in various utterances. He admitted the principle of collective bargaining and that a "responsible organization" of Western Union telegraphers could be dealt with. The men should have some organization to protect their interests he stated with emphasis.

Should Regulate Wages.

"We are subject to the control of the Interstate commerce commission," said he, "they absolutely fix not only our practices but our rates, I believe therefore that the commission should be given sufficient power to see that fair wages are paid and that fair working conditions are provided. I think the corporation, the public and the employes are entitled to the protection of some federal commission."

The policy of the Western Union, witness said, is formed by the executive committee. Jacob Schiff, a member of that committee, was quoted by Chairman Walsh as having said that no self respecting employer would refuse to deal with the representatives of union labor.

"Is that your opinion?" asked Mr. Walsh.

"I believe in the organization."

"And in collective bargaining?"

"If collective bargaining is where the organization with whom you are dealing is a responsible one, yes."

Mr. Walsh pressed for an answer to the broader question of dealing with all organized labor and witness replied:

"Oh, it would be hypocritical for me to say that that is my view when I have refused to see certain representatives of certain alleged unions."

LUCEY TO OPPOSE DEFICIENCY APPROPRIATION ASKED BY POTTS

Declares There is no Need for State Departments Employing Special Counsel.

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—Attorney General Patrick J. Lucey announced today that he will appear before the Senate appropriations committee probably tomorow to urge the defeat of the deficiency appropriation bill carrying $10,000 which was asked for by Rufus M. Potts, state insurance commissioner.

Most of the defiency appropriation asked for is to cover the expenses of special counsel employed by the insurance superintendent in the investigation of insurance conditions and for the drafting of the administration's insurance bill now before the legislature.

Attorney General Lucey declared that there is no need for state departments employing special counsel and that all of the state's legal work should be conducted by the attorney general's department. Should every state department be permitted to employ special counsel, he declared there would be no need for his department. The attorney general stated that he will oppose special appropriations for legal work in any dpartment on the ground that such appropriations would be a needless expense.

CONSIDER REPLY TO GERMANY

Washington, April 12—President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had under consideration tonight a draft of a reply to be made to the memorandum of count VonBernstorff, the German ambassador, relative to the question of preventing exportations of arms unless foodstuffs were allowed to go to the German civilian population.

"We have the whole subject under consideration and I am not prepared to discuss it", was all Secretary Bryan would say.

CAPTAIN MUST MAKE REQUEST FOR REPAIRS

EXPERTS FIND CRUISER WILHELM LEAKING AND BOILERS IN BAD SHAPE

German Captain is Insistent That he Must Hasten to Repair his Ship and put to sea—Raider has Marvelous Escape off Capes.

Newport News, Va., April 12.—The German merchant raider Kron Prinz Wilhelm will not be permitted to go into drydock at the ship yard here until Lieut. Captain Thierfelder, her commander, makes formal request for time to complete such repairs as he deems necessary to make his vessel seaworthy. Captain Thierfelder told Collector Hamilton tonight he could not do so before tomorrow.

Find Ship Leaking Slightly.

Experts from Newport News who examined the ship today found her leaking slightly and her boilers in bad condition. Unofficially it was learned that the vessel would require extensive repairs. That was taken to indicate the ship eventually might be forced to intern. The German captain however, is insistent that he must hasten to repair his ship and return to his work as a merchant raider. He discharged today officers and men of the British ships Tamar and Coleby, whom he brought here, and they were transferred to the British steamer Cassandra, which sailed tonight for England. That the escape of the Wilhelm from the allied warships off the capes was a miraculous one, was attested tonight by Captain Thierfelder, in describing his experiences after destroying the Coleby March 27th, last.

Have Sick Sailors Aboard.

"We started north from the equator short of coal and provisions," he said. "We also have sick sailors aboard, afflicted because of too much rice diet and lack of fresh vegetables. When we started north we hoped and had planned to meet German supply ships. Unfortunately for us none turned up. What became of them I don't know except we saw from the shelter of overhanging clouds one collier we had expected being chased by two British cruisers which fortunately could not sight us.

"Unfortunately also on our trip north through the mid-Atlantic we did not meet any merchant ships from which we could get coal and supplies. In this situation it was necessary for us to get to port and also to a drydock.

Hear About Raider Eitel.

"As we came up we continually heard the British warships talking to each other by wireless. It seemed on some days and nights that there were as many as eight warships within a radius of a few hundred miles. But we kept on due north running as rapidly as we could with our ship darkened at night. One night we heard the exchange of news about the Prinz Eitel Friedrich being at Newport News. Thereafter we heard information about the Eitel every night and a few nights ago we got the news that the Prinz Eitel had interned.

"Immediately thereafter all talking between the British warships ceased. We presumed that the fleet was breaking up and on Saturday night we decided to bolt in for the Virginia Capes.

"With all lights out we started at top speed but had not gone far when we again picked up the wireless of the allied warships. However, we kept on. As we got nearer the coast it seemed to us from the signals that there were as many as 3 British warships and 1 French within distances varying from three to fifty miles of us. One ship seemed dangerously near us as we approached the Capes.

See Two British Warships.

"One night on our way up we were to have met a German collier and made for her. There were low overhanging clouds about us but in the distance a brilliant moonlight showed us our ship and there were two British warships after her. The clouds protected us and we escaped. We never heard of the collier again."

From other sources it was learned the collier was believed to have been the Macedonia, which was reported to have put out from Las Palmas, about two weeks ago.

Captain Thierfelder denied statements made by British prisoners aboard his vessel, that the Kron Prinz ever was in wireless communication with the Prinz Eitel while the latter was in port here or before that time. Official inquiry was made concerning those reports.

War News Summarized

Les Eparges, occupied on April 9th, by the French after a series of desperate engagements costing countless lives, has again come under the first of the German guns. It was around this point that the Germans, according to a French official report, lost 30,000 men in two months fighting. It is here that General Joffre, the French commander, is bringing his strength to bear on the German wedge to force it out of the allies side, so that the allied line that stretches in front of the great German fortress of Metz may be straightened.

After a lull of two days the Germans prepared for their counter-attack on Les Eparges by a severe bombardment and a heavy rifle fire; then in the early hours of the morning they advanced on the position which the French had made even stronger than when the Germans held it, but were forced to retire. The extent of this offensive is not known, but it has been reported that the Germans look upon this position, which commands the plan of the Woevre, as one of great importance and further attacks may be looked for.

Otherwise the situation in the western war zone is of comparatively little interest, owing to the general calm that prevails.

In the east, although the Russians have occupied the principal positions in the western section of the Carpathians, there is one height, known as height 992, which they have not been able to master.

Nevertheless they are reported to be moving down the western slopes and in a fair way to make an advance into Hungary.

Reports persist of heavy firing in the North Sea but no explanation, either officially or unofficially, is forthcoming. These rumors date back as far as April 7th, and the latest, within twenty-four hours, reported firing off Scarborough, which seemed to indicate a naval engagement, but the British admiralty has vouchsafed no information one way or another.

HUERTA LANDS IN NEW YORK; IS PASSED AS A TRANSIENT ALIEN

Declares, Under Oath That He Will Do Nothing That Would in Any Way Involve the Neutrality of the United States.

New York, April 12—General Victoriano Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico who for nearly a year has been an exile in Spain, arrived here today on the Spanish steamship Antonio Lopez from Cadiz. General Huerta was passed by United States immigration officials as a transient alien, after he had declared under oath that he would no nothing that would in any way involve the neutrality of the United States. The former president said that he had come to the United States partly for pleasure and partly to attend to some personal business connected with family matters. He swore that he had no intention of going to Mexico or to Cuba. The length of his stay here, he said, was infeinite, but he would return to Spain, possibly sailing from New York early in May.

General Huerta was met at quarantine by representatives of the press and by an array of photographers. While submitting to being photographed in every desired pose he declined to say anything as to his mission, agreeing to meet newspaper men at his hotel here next Friday morning. Regarding this appointment he said:

"I understand that my presence in this country creates in you the desire to know my views about the affairs of Mexico and I promise to satisfy your wishes at the best of my ability. I beg you, gentlemen, to remember that no interview with me should be considered as authentic unless it carries my persanal signature."

EDWARD MOXEY DIES.

Chicago, April 12.—Edward Preston Moxey, formerly special bank examiner for the United States government died sudnenly in a downtown hotel here today. Prior to his retirement from the government service six years ago Mr. Moxey had secured evidence which resulted in the conviction of many men who had stood high in the financial circles of the country.

RESTRICTIONS ARE MODIFIED

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—Restrictions on the movement of cattle in foot and mouth disease areas were modified today. The counties of Grundy, DeWitt, Livingstone, McLean and Putman were taken from the exposed area and placed in "modified" territory from which shipments of livestock for slaughter may be made without inspection.

FIND ABARNO AND CARBONE GUILTY

New York, April 12—Frank Abarno and Carmine Carbone were found guilty by a jury late tonight on a charge of having made and placed a bomb in St. Patrick's Cathedral here on March 2. The jury recommended clemency for both men.

SENTENCE TWENTY TO FEDERAL PENITENTIARY

FOUR TERRE HAUTE MEN ARE GIVEN COMMITTMENT PAPERS

Sixteen Appeal—Eighty Seven are Given Sentences Ranging from one Day to Sixteen Months in Jail—Eight Escape Punishment.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 12.—Four men convicted in the Terre Haute election fraud trial and sentenced by Judge Anderson today to the federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, received their commitment papers late today and were given until Sunday to begin the trip to prison. The other sixteen, including Mayor Donn M. Roberts, who received prison sentences and appealed and the eighty seven who were given sentences ranging from one day to sixteen months in the local jail, were in jail here tonight. It was said the sixteen will be given two or three days in which to obtain their appeal bonds which were fixed by Judge Anderson at $10,000 for each year the men were sentenced.

Four Withdraw From Appeal.

Edward Holler, the former chief of police, who had pleaded guilty, also received a prison sentence. The four who withdrew from the appeal are: John M. Maselink, city sealer of weights and measures and former member of the state legislature; Arthur Gillis, progressive election official; Joseph Strauss, liquor salesman and George Sovern, gambler. Each had been sentenced to a year and a day in prison and to pay a fine of $100. They departed for Terre Haute tonight and will remain there until they leave for Leavenworth unaccompanied by guards.

To obtain liberty pending his appeal, Mayor Roberts who was sentenced to prison for six years and to pay a fine of $2,000—the severest sentence given—will have to furnish a bond of $60,000.

Efforts to secure the bonds for the 16 were begun this afternoon. If all secure bond it will mean a total of $420,000.

A large crowd gathered around the federal building this afternoon to see the prisoners as they were taken to jail. United States Marshal Storen, however, instead of marching the prisoners to the jail, had them hauled in a city patrol automobile.

Eight Escape Punishment.

Only eight of the 116 prisoners escaped punishment. Four were given suspended sentences and four others, at the request of United States District Attorney Dailey, were not sentenced, as, he said, it might invalidate their testimony in the trial of Roy Shattuck, the Republican candidate for congress in the fifth Indiana district and four other Republicans who were candidates for offices in Vigo county. The five were indicted on the ground that they gave Frank Hess, whose sentence was deferred, $1,000 to secure their election. The other three against whom judgement was not passed are:

John F. Nugent, former assistant chief of police; Jack Hines and John B Bruns, all of whom had pleaded guilty in the case just ended. Judge Anderson set the trial for May 17th.

In passing sentence today Judge Anderson frequently paused to comment on the evidence and the conditions in Terre Haute.

Believes Saloons Must Go.

While considering the case of a number of saloon keepers who had pleaded guilty he said: "My notion is that the saloon will have to go. I believe the time will come when the people will rise up and smash the saloon at least as we have it now. The evidence in this case showed that the saloons were the centers of nearly all the corruption in the election at Terre Haute."

Continuing the court said he had noticed that the saloonkeepers who had appeared as witnesses for the government appeared robust, strong and well physically. He added:

"God Almighty meant for them to work with their hands. I don't approve of this saloon business, at least as it is conducted in Terre Haute."

Before passing sentence Judge Anderson overruled motions for new trails and to arrest judgment. He gave counsel for the defense sixty days in which to file exceptions to the rulings.

The crowd at the federal building was said to be the largest that ever attempted to gain admission to the small court room.

BROOKLYN REVIVAL CLOSES SUNDAY

The series of revival meetings at Brooklyn M. E. church were brought to a successful close Sunday night, with a large number present and much enthusiasm manifest. The Rev. H. J. Floreth gave the invocation and Albert Strausser sang "Rock of Ages." "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," urged Mr. Beadles, the evangelist, in an eloquent appeal for immediate accepiance of the Christ. The Rev. J. M. Beadles has been well received on each night of his stay in the city and a warm welcome awaits him, should he ever choose to return. Members of Brooklyn church extend thanks to all who helped with special music during the meetings.

FUGITIVE DIES IN TUBERCULOSIS WARD OF COOK COUNTY HOSPITAL

Death of Ignatious J. Chileski Ends Four Year Search—Reveals Identity to Nurse.

Chicago, April 12.—Ignatius J. Chileski, lawyer and private banker, who in 1911, fled from Chicago with clients and depositors clamoring for more than $100,000 of their money which he declared he had lost in gambling, died today in the tuberculosis ward of the county hospital, a charity patient under an assumed name. He was brought to the hospital a few days ago from a South Side rooming house and gave the name of Joseph Wagner. His death ended a four years' search conducted by his wife and children. When he became a fugitive he fled to South America, from there to Africa and later visited Asia. His efforts to establish himself in business in a foreign country failed and a year ago his health gave way under the strain. He returned to Chicago a few months ago hopelessly ill and without funds. He did not communicate with his family, evidently preferring to suffer in seclusion. Just before he died at the hospital he revealed his identity to a nurse and whispered:

"Tell my old friends that I paid for my folly with my life. Gambling did it all."

TO HOLD MEMORIAL MEETING TO COMMEMORATE LINCOLN'S SHOOTING

Meeting in Springfield to be Attended by Governor Dunne, Members of the Legislature, State Officials and Justices of the Supreme Court.

Springfield, Ill., April 12—Governor Dunne, members of the legislature, state officials and the justices of the supreme court will attend a memorial meeting in this city Wednesday night to commemorate the assassination of President Lincoln. The meeting will be held just fifty years, to the minute, from the time Abraham Lincoln was shot while watching a theatrical performance in the Ford theatre at Washington. The principal address of the evening will be delivered by Bishop Samuel Fallows, departmental commander of the Grand Army of the Republic. Governor Dunne will act as chairman. The service will be held in the first Presbyterian church, just two blocks from the old Lincoln home. When the legislature re-convenes tomorrow the senate will consider the Piercy resolution, providing for submission to the voter of an amendment to the amending clause of the constitution which would permit the submission of more than one amendment to the same article at one time. A similar resolution will be acted on Wednesday by the house.

Governor Dunne announced tonight that the administration's bill providing for the building of a deep waterway connecting Chicago with the Mississippi river is being gone over this week by engineers and that it will be ready to be reported out of committee the first of next week.

ORDER SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE AT PANAMA TO LEAVE

Graybruck Announces His Intention of Resisting Attempts to Exile Him—Serious Disorders are Feared.

Panama, Ill., April 12.—Serious disorders are feared here as the result of notice served by several hundred miners upon I. H. Graybruck, superintendent of the Shoal Creek Coal Mine, ordering him to leave the city. Graybruck has announced his intention of resisting attempts to exile him.

The notice to Graybruck followed closely on the expulsion from Panama of Police Judge Bennett and Charles Serenco, a merchant. Both these affairs resulted from ill-feeling against the mine owners which is said to have spread among the miners here since an explosion in which eleven men lost their lives several weeks ago. The miners hold Graybruck partly responsible for the explosion and accuse Judge Bennett and Serenco of attempting to induce relatives of the dead miners to compromise with the company. Bennett and Serenco fled to Hillsboro, Ill. They were not even given time to settle their business affairs in Panama.

WILL SEND DIVERS DOWN TO MAKE OBSERVATIONS TODAY

HONOLULU, T. H. April 12.—Workmen were busy this afternoon transferring the apparatus brought by the Cruiser Maryland today to the place outside the harbor where the missing submarine F-4 is believed to be submerged. Several expert divers who arrived on the Maryland will begin operations, it was announced, tomorrow morning.

Lines are fast to an object on the floor of the ocean believed to be the F-4.

Later at a conference by naval officials held on board the Maryland and presided over by Rear-Admiral C. B. T. Moore it was decided to send divers down tomorrow for the purpose of making observations. Work of beginning to listing of the object believed to be the submarine would not be undertaken, it is said, before Wednesday.

WILLIAM R. NELSON DIES EARLY THIS MORNING

EDITOR OF KANSAS CITY STAR EXPIRES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Took an Active Part in the Management of His Paper Until a Month Ago, Directing Work From Sickroom—Was for Many Years a Director of the Associated Press.

Kansas City, Mo., April 13—William Rockhill Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, died at his home here this morning. Mr. Nelson who was 74 years old, had been in ill health several months and had been confined to his home since last December. Uraemic poisoning caused his death according to physicians.

Directs Work From Bed.

Mr. Nelson took an active part in the management of the Star up until about a month ago when his condition changed for the worse. Until then members of the Star staff gathered at his bedside several times weekly for the purpose of discussing with Mr. Nelson questions of editorial policy. At these conferences he would dictate editorials and outline ideas for cartoons and feature stories.

Although his physicians constantly advised against the part he was taking, during the last few months, in the management of the paper, he refused to obey them, reminding them that it was in the building of the Star he had been happiest and that he would not be content without it to occupy his mind.

During the last month, however, Mr. Nelson has been conscious only at intervals. At each period his mind was clear and he constantly asked questions about his newspapers and the members of its staff.

Was Widely Known.

For many years Mr. Nelson was a director of The Associated Press. He was recognized as one of the leading editors of the United States and his friends were many. Immediately following his death a large number of his former friends were notified by telegraph. Among them were widely known men in almost every walk of life. They included Theodore Roosevelt; Geo. W. Perkins of New York; Henry Watterson of Louisville, Ky.; General Chas. H. Taylor, Boston; Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy; Victor F. Lawson, Chicago; Melville E. Stone, general manager of The Associated Press, New York; H. S. Kohlsaat, Chicago and Medill McCormick, Chicago.

At Mr. Nelson's bedside were Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. I. R. Kirkwood, his only child and Mr. Kirkwood. Other relatives were Mr. Nelson's sister, Miss Eva Nelson and Mrs. H. W. Bond of Fort Wayne, Ind., and a niece, Miss Laura McCurdy of Bloomington, Ill.

TESTIMONY CONCERNS INCREASES IN RATES ON COTTON PIECE GOODS

CHICAGO, April 12—Testimony in the western rate hearing before W. M. Daniels, interstate commerce commissioner, today concerned the increase in freight rates proposed by forty-one western railroad systems on cotton piece goods, one of the commodities on which they seek higher transportation charges. Two long tables at the side of the commissioners' chair were heaped with bolts of drygoods at the afternoon session, the article being an exhibit presented by Leon Smith of Kansas City, a witness called by the shippers to controvert the testimony of railroad witnesses. Mr. Smith, who is president of Smith, McCord and Townsend company, drygoods jobbers, directed most of his testimony to a comparison of his exhibits with a list of commodities presented in the testimony of S. H. Johnson, assistant freight traffic manager of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad.

Making the Most of Time.

That Kansas man who has just announced that he will plow with day and night sniffs has the new ideas of economy. This man has a gasoline tractor and as the season has been wet in Kansas and plowing delayed, he has conceived the idea of plowing both night and day. The tractor has a high power headlight, so that there will be no trouble about light. The average farmer uses horses and mules as motive power, and these animals must be given the night for rest but this matter of rest and time off for meals doesn't bother the tractor owner. It's not exactly "making hay while the sun shines" but on the same principle.

Searchlight on Stock Yards.

The sunlight of publicity will be poured in by the United States industrial relations commission, when a sweeping investigation into conditions in the Chicago stockyards will begin. Actual working conditions, wages, hours and home life of the workers will be gone into. Sensations are promised when John C. Kennedy, former instructor of economics in the University of Chicago, testifies. His survey, made recently for the University settlement, will be read into the commission's records. J. Ogden Armour will probably be a witness.

The Salary Question.

And meanwhile the people seem to have forgotten that the salary question will be voted on at the election next Tuesday. It will require simply a majority of the votes cast upon the proposition to carry and this would mean a $900 salary for the mayor and $600 salaries for commissioners. These salary figures are not in accord with the spirit and intent of the commission form act. Men who devote their time to the city business are entitled to higher salaries than proposed in this ordinance.

Aiding the Children.

St. Louis has just completed an open air school which the papers there declare is the largest yet built. It makes provision for 150 children and there are said to be 600 more children with tubercular tendency, who are on the waiting list. The daily program as carried out is very much like that in vogue in Jacksonville. The children arrive at 8 o'clock, are given a shower bath and at 8:30 are given a breakfast which costs 4 cents per pupil. From 9 o'clock until 11:30 the time is spent in study and then another four cent lunch is served. Then an hour and a half is given to sleep, which is followed by a breathing exercise, and after another four-cent lunch about 2:30 in the afternoon, the children are ready to go home. There are more than one hundred "tubercular" children in Jacksonville and a vote in favor of the one mill tax, next Tuesday, will be a vote in their aid.

Maligning Jacksonville.

The Illinoian-Star contains a three column article published as a "political advertisement" and headed, "The Truth About Dry Jacksonville." The writer of this article who is said to be T. B. Wadleigh of Spring Valley presents a vast amount of misinformation with the purpose of proving that local option is the wrst thing that can happen to any city and that the saloon is the basis of all municipal prosperity.

Some of the alleged facts which Wadleigh presents are too silly to merit notice and as to his general proposition that the saloon is not the breeding place of crime and is necessary to business prosperity he should read the remarks of Judge Anderson at Terre Haute in passing sentence on some of the 114 men convicted of election frauds. Judge Anderson charged the saloon business as conducted in Terre Haute with responsibility for all those crimes and said, "it is very evident that the saloon must go."

Lyman B. Glover's Work.

The following tribute to Lyman B. Glover appeared editorially in the last issue of Scoop, the official magazine of the Chicago Press club:

"The world is poorer this week for the death of Lyman B. Glover. The name carries back a long way in Chicago newspaper history, and connotes a career both useful and honorable. It was toward the close of the year 1875 that in company with George McConnell and John M. Dandy, under the firm name of McConnell, Glover & Dandy, he founded the Saturday Evening Herald, a weekly paper of the arts, letters and society that had a prosperous run lasting until the middle eighteen nineties. He sold his interest to Dandy about 1883, and became dramatic critic of the Herald; a position he held through the two following changes in the name of the paper, when he was succeeded by James O'Donnell Bennett, and attached himself to the fortunes of Richard Mansfield. As a manager he developed abilities so far above the average that upon Mr. Mansfield's death he was engaged by Kohl & Castle to handle their rather large theatrical interests. This finally settled down to the Majestic theater. Glover had charge of that fine house from the day of its opening until a few days ago, when he was seized of the illness that killed him.

"He was reserved, studious, clean minded, and generous. It is not often a man is found in whose mental makeup literary ability and high imagination are combined with business talent. Glover was such an one. He graced both fields of endeavor, and conferred no slight distinction upon one of them. Theatrical management at large is peculiarly indebted to his memory for an elevated tone and a finer sense of duty toward the public than it had before his day."

Favor "Open" National Convention.

According to Senator Curtis of Kansas the Republicans of that state are very much in favor of sending an uninstructed delegation to the national convention next year. The "open convention" idea has advocates all over Kansas, it is said, who believe that this kind of a convention, with delegates uninstructed will come more nearly expressing the wishes of the whole people and taking the action most likely to mean party success. There is something in the idea worth thinking about.

Senator Curtis said: "Our people, convinced that the Republicans will sweep the country in 1916, desire the presidential candidate to be a man in sympathy with the industria, agricultural and financial interests of the nation and to be a man of sound judgement and advocate of wise and constructive policies.

"Another argument for an uninstructed delegation is the fact that there is such an abundance of presidential timber available in the Republican leadership. We believe that this convention, which promises to be one of the most notable in the annals of the party, will be free from 'bosses' and steam roller methods."

NAME WILLIAMS AND M'ADOO DEFENDANTS

RIGGS NATIONAL BANK OF WASHINGTON, D. C., CHARGES CONSPIRACY

Alleges Officials Have Combined to Wreck Bank—Asks for Injunctions to Halt the Alleged Conspiracy.

Washington, April 12.—Secretary McAdoo of the treasury, and Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams, were made defendnats today in proceedings begun in the District of Columbia supreme court by the Riggs National bank of Washington, D. C., which alleges that these officials have combined and conspired to wreck that institution.

Temporary and permanent injunctions to halt the alleged conspiracy and to prevent the comptroller from making what the bank charges are unlawful demands for special reports of various kinds, are sought from the court.

Seeks to Restrain Payment.

One portion of the prayer seeks to restrain John Burke, treasurer of the United States, from payment into the treasury of $5,000, declared to be due the band as interest on $1,000,000 of United States bonds deposited with the comptroller against its note circulation. This interest was withheld to cover penalties of $100 a day for failure of the bank to make certain reports. Once paid into the treasury, only an act of congress could get the $5,000 out and Justice McCoy late today granted a temporary injunction on this phase of the case. The justice then set April 16th, as the day for answer by the defendants to show cause why permanent injunctions should not issue.

Charges McAdoo Cursed Ailes.

The bank's bill of complaint covers 86 typewritten pages, and contains 37 specific allegations designed to show that the comptroller has adopted unusual and legally questionable tactics in dealing with the institution. It recites that evidence of an unusual desire for information concerning the bank was shown by Mr. Williams shortly after he assumed the office of comptroller, more than a year ago and has continued ever since. Prior to that time in December, 1913, it says, Mr. McAdoo charged officers of the bank with responsibility for publications regarding the official conduct of the defendant Williams, as assistant secretary of the treasury. When this charge was denied by the officials the bill asserts, Secretary McAdoo cursed Milton E. Ailes, a vice-president of the bank, and said to C. C. Glover, its president: "Mr. Glover, you know what this means to the Riggs National Bank."

Williams Makes Statement.

Comptroller Williams in a statement tonight said in part:

"I have not seen the bill filed by the complainants but have read the extracts furnished the press. In the recent investigations of the affairs of the Riggs bank disclosed irregularities and unlawful practices on the part of certain officers of sufficient importance to merit their reference to the department of justice and that department engaged the services of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston some weeks ago as special counsel in the case and it is consistent with the attitude of these officers to attempt by unwarranted and untrue statements to place themselves and the bank in a position of martyrdom at the hands of the administration.

"The whole purpose of the department has been to require the bank to give up the unlawful and dangerous practices and methods which had been in vogue for years past and which had threatened alike the welfare and security of both, share holders and depositors and to require the bank to conform to the plain requirements of the national bank act and to the regulations of the office of the comptroller of the currency."

Waverly Man Comes to Himself at Washburn, Ill.—Is Under Physician's Care.

As already announced in the Journal, W. H. Graves of Waverly disappeared from his home last Thursday evening and was not heard from by his family until 4:30 yesterday morning when he walked in weary and footsore and evidently in a bad physical condition. In his flight he cashed a check for $25.00 and brought a part of it home with him. It seems he walked to Pekin, took train for Peoria and then to Washburn and there came to himself partly. He found his way to Springfield on the train and then put out for home afoot and reached Cody, a small station between Springfield and Waverly where he aroused the agent and asked the direction to Waverly, remarking that he was Graves. The agent said the family was seeking him and he went on rapidly and reached home as stated.

Dr. Wood was called and administered a sedative and the patient was soon asleep. He stands high in the community and his conduct is truly strange and must be actuated by anxiety and nervous depression.

FUNERALS

Catlin.

The funeral services for Miss Margaret Catlin were held Monday afternoon at the residence on West State street at 2:30 o'clock in charge of Rev. Dr. R. O. Post, pastor of the Congregational church.

The minister paid high tribute to the character of the deceased, who had for so many years been a member of his congregation. Appropriate music was furnished by a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Jenkinson, Miss Louise Miller and R. M. Hockenhull. The bearers were Robert M. Hockenhull, J. L. Johnson, A. T. Capps, J. K. C. Pierson, G. L. Merrill and Dr. C. E. Scott. Burial was made in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Beesley.

The funeral services for Mrs. Sarah G. Beesley were held Monday afternoon at four o'clock from the residence, 206 Caldwell street, with the Rev. Dr. A. B. Morey in charge.

The minister spoke most beautifully of the life of the deceased, dwelling on her kindly traits of character, her patience through long suffering, and what her life had meant to those about her. A large number of friends and relatives were in attendance at the services.

The beautiful floral tokens were cared for by Mrs. Virgie Vasey, Mrs. Nannie Westner, Miss Grace Carter and Miss Ethel Crum.

The bearers were Charles Jones, Dr. Ralph Jones, Henry Gordon, William Gordon, John Heaton and Roy Vassey.

Gordon.

The funeral services for Miss Frances Gordon were held Monday afternoon at the Central Christian church in charge of the pastor, Rev. Myron L. Pontius, assisted by Rev. Joseph Camp of Minonk, Ill.

The services were attended by a large number of friends of the deceased who came to pay their last tribute of respect. The great number bespoke the respect and admiration in which she was held by all who knew her, better than could mere words. The service at the church was of a very impressive nature. The ministers in charge paid rich tribute to the deceased, especially the Rev. Mr. Camp, who knew her so well.

When Glands Swell Blood Needs Attention

Even a Sweat Gland May Result in Severe Consequence.

In our intricate body the use of S. S. S. for the blood has a most remarkable influence. We little realize our glandular system. It may be a tiny bulb no bigger than a pin point, and yet if a disease germ gets into it, there is a tremendous swelling. It becomes a boil, a carbuncle, it may be a "blood rising," and it is often a source of continuous misery if not checked. Many of the most excruciating forms of torture begin with the swelling of a tiny gland, caused by a disease germ. And it is S. S. S. that spreads throughout the blood circulation to prevent just such conditions. Or if they have already started, S. S. S. will soon put the blood in such a state of health as to overcome the tendency to glandular swellings. It is a natural medicine for the blood, just as essential to health if the blood be impure, as are the meats, fats, grains and sugars of our daily food.

It contains one Ingredient the active purpose of which is to stimulate the exchange of new flesh for dead or waste matter.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist, and if your case is stubborn, write to the Medical Adviser, The Swift Specific Co., 108 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. This department is in charge of a noted physician.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective.

They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

BARK STATES WAR IS BLESSING TO RUSSIANS

MINISTER OF FINANCE DISCUSSES CONFLICT.

Says Peasant Class is More Prosperous than at Any Previous Time in the History of the Country by Virtue of Allowance Made by Government.

Petrograd, April 12.—via London, (5:01 p. m.)—The opinion was expressed today by Pierre L. Bark, Russian minister of finance that economically considered, the war has been a blessing to the people of this country. Discussing the financial and social aspects of the conflict in an interview with the Associated Press, M. Bark said:

Peasant Class Prosperous.

"Notwithstanding the depressing and paralyzing effect of the war, the Russian peasant class is more prosperous than at any previous time in the history of the country. It is not difficult to account for this unusual prosperity. By virtue of the allowance made by the government to the families of soldiers which exceeds the earning power of the soldiers, the total income of these families is greater than in times of peace. Thus, instead of feeling any privation as the result of the absence of the men and the loss of their services the people are beginning to regard the war as a peculiar sort of Godsend which is putting money into their pockets."

"What about vodka," was asked of the minister.

"It is the prohbition of the sale of vodka which is primarily responsible or the ameliorated condition of the peasant," he responded.

"The sieve through which all the available earnings formerly disappeared has been closed and the money is spent for present necessaries or saved for future wants.

Prosperity Everywhere Noticeable.

"It is not necessary to invent theories to explain why the Russian people should be more prosperous, for the actual fact is that this prosperity is everywhere noticeable. Before the war the average yearly saving deposited amount from thirty to forty million rubles ($15,000,000 to $20,000,000) while in the month of January alone about sixty million rubles ($30,000,000) was deposited."

"What about the crops?" was the next question.

"The farmers have been very fortunate in being compelled to hold their supply of grain on account of the difficulties of transportation for grain is now at the highest price of the year. There is every reason to believe the farmers will soon be able to dispose of their grain in foreign markets at a great advantage."

Discussing the conference in Paris of the finance ministers of Russia, France and Great Britain for the consideration of financial problems arising from the war, Mr. Bark said:

To Pool Expenses of War.

"One result was the formulation of an agreement with our allies to pool all the expenses of the war. In accordance with this understanding, Russia is to draw upon Great Britain and France for money expended in the war while our allies are to call upon Russia for grain which they need.

"This is an excellent arrangement for all concerned, for while Russia has enormous resources, she is in need of immediate capital and our allies on the other hand have more capital than supplies.

"I have already arranged a credit of 625,000,000 francs ($125,000,000) in France and of 25,000,000 pounds ($125,000,000) in England, which Russia is to use at any time the occasion requires. We are on the point of making use of the part of the French credit."

Tariff Increase Temporary.

In response to a question regarding the recent increase of thirty percent in the tariff, M. Bark said:

"That is only a temporary affair, designed partly to make up for the loss in revenue from the vodka traffic. I do not believe that this temporary increase in the tariff will discourage the foreign trade with Russia. In fact Russia looks for a tremendous increase in her trade with the United States and her allies to replace the German trade existing before the war. I am not an authority as to what of trade treaties will be formed at the end of the war but I am sure everything will be done to open the Russian market to these countries and not permit it to slip back to Germany.

"There is now a peculiar opportunity for the United States for she, of all the countries to which we look for trade is not crippled by the war."

M. Bark was asked what means were being employed to replace the revenues formerly derived from vodka. The amount of this revenue exceeded 900,000,000 rubles ($450,000,000) he replied. "This is being replaced in a diversity of way, including a special war tax on railroad transportation, matches, sugar and most ordinary commodities."

We made some progress and in so doing developed a violent battle in the region of Uzsok Pass where the enemy still holds. We captured here three guns and about 700 prisoners. In the direction of the Stry river we repulsed attacks on the Rosochacz- Oravozil- Koziouwka- Rozanka front, inflicting enormous losses on the enemy.

"The enemy have held Height 992 since April 9th, but Koziouwka and the adjoining positions remain in our hands."

MRS. R. F. THRAPP DEAD AT HOME IN LOS ANGELES

Wife of Former Jacksonville Pastor Succumbs After Long Period of Illness—Deceased Held in High Regard by Hundreds in This City.

A telegram received Sunday morning by George T. Douglas brought the sad news of the death of Mrs. R. F. Thrapp at her home in Los Angeles, Cal. The message was read by Rev. M. L. Pontius at the morning service of Central Christian church. The day was therefore one of special sadness for hundreds of members of that church who during Mrs. Thrapp's residence of ten years in Jacksonville had learned to hold her in closest friendship. Mrs. Thrapp had been ill for more than a year and her death was not unexpected as it had been known for a month at least that the time of her going was near.

Mrs. Thrapp's maiden name was Mary Richardson and she was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Richardson. The family home was for a number of years at Cambridge, Ill., and there Mrs. Thrapp was born forty-six years ago. Subsequently the family moved to Lake Geneva, Wis. It was while they were students at Eureka college that Mr. Thrapp and his deceased wife met. They were members of the same class and the college friendship resulted in their marriage shortly after their graduation. They were first located at Gibson City, then at Pittsfield, and thirteen years ago came to Jacksonville.

Much of the great success which attended Rev. Mr. Thrapp work as pastor of Central Christian church here he himself attributed to his wife, and to her saintly devotion to all the church interests the great body of members of that church can testify. Mrs. Thrapp was a woman not only of deep religious spirit, but of such exceptional tact and such hard earnestness that she was able to supplement the work of her husband in a very large degree. She took an earnest and active interest in the various departments of church work and came to hold a place in the hearts of the members which has not changed although she had not been for more than three years a resident of this city.

Mr. Thrapp in writing to a friend not long ago and referring to Mrs. Thrapp said, "What a marvelous companion she has been all through these years. Without her the tasks that we have met would have seemed insurmountable. There are few like her on this earth, and I am certain that if she is to go it must be to perform some still greater task beyond." Mrs. Thrapp's mother died in December, 1913, and she is survived by her husband; her son, Elbridge; her father, E. R. Richardson, and one sister, Mrs. W. C. Mage.

The funeral is to be held in Los Angeles this afternoon and interment will be there. Members of the Central Christian church Sunday joined in sending a night letter of sympathy to Rev. Mr. Thrapp, and Monday a beautiful floral emblem was sent.

Rippling Rhymes by Walt Mason

TOILING ON

We are evermore forgetting that our stay on earth is brief, and we waste the time in fretting, hunting for all kinds of grief, making moan about the weather, magnifying every ill, as we toil along together to the boneyard on the hill. All our little griefs and worries will forsake us in a day; every dark affliction hurries, anxious to be on its way, but we lasso it and tether every trouble we can nail, as we toil along together to the boneyard in the vale. Life should be a cheerful ramble, but we make it one of woes, and we howl about the bramble till we overlook the rose. We ignore the scented heather, looking for the thistle clump, as we toil along to gether to the boneyard by the dump. There's so much to make us joyous, there's so much that's good and bright! There's so little to annoy us, if our hearts were only right! Why bawl forth, from lungs of leather, protests fierce, when all is well, as we toil along together to the boneyard in the dell?

LABOR OF FARM HORSE LARGE EXPENSE ITEM

COST OF PRODUCING FARM PRODUCTS RECKONED

Few Give Extended Thought to the Methods of Lowering Cost of Crop Production—Horse Labor Cost on Different Farms Shows Variation of Nine Cents Per Hour.

(By J. B. Andrews, Department of Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois.)

The main object of any business is to put out a valuable product which when sold or used will pay for its production and leave a profit. Any enterprise which does not do this will soon cease to exist. The increased competition in all lines of business make it necessary for better methods to be used in their management. The most important cost in the production of farm crops is the use of land and it is necessarily rising because of the limited supply and the increased demand for its products. For the farmer to make a profit with this increased rent of land, one or all of the following must happen; the other costs of production must be decreased, the output must be increased or the price of the product must rise. The farmer has no control over the markets although he watches them very closely, hoping that he may benefit from a rise. He is, however, able to influence the cost of production and the yields of his crops or the gains of his animals to some extent and it is to this that he should devote his attention. Every farmer knows the advantage of better crops and more of them, but few give much thought to the lowering of the cost of producing these crops. Of course, everyone tries to "cut down expenses" but they do not start with a definite and systematic purpose of deliberately lowering the cost of production and at the same time maintaining or increasing the yields and thereby increasing the profits.

Largest Single Item.

Next to the interest on investment in land or rent, horse labor is the largest single item in the cost of producing farm crops and it is therefore well to consider how it might be reduced or used to better advantage. It has been found that the cost of horse labor has varied over nine cents per hour on different farms in the same community and with the same type of farming. The cause for this difference may be due to care and feeding, number of horses to be kept for the work to be done, and the system of farming which includes the arrangement and size of the fields, the kind of crops and the number of acres of each grown, and the method of marketing the farm products, that is, selling the grain directly or through livestock.

Much attention should be given to the general care and feeding of the work horses. However, these factors are the least in need of remedying than any of the others that enter into the cost of horse labor. Farmers oft times give their horses too much feed and care which increases the expense and does not add to their comfort or efficiency.

The number of horses kept and the amount of work per horse are the direct cause of the varying costs of horse labor and they in turn depend directly upon the system of farming.

Two Kinds of Labor.

All farm labor is divided into two principal kinds. They are the fixed which must be done at a certain time and the non-fixed which may be done at odd times. For example, the final preparation of the seed bed, planting, and cultivating are operations upon the corn crop for which the time is fixed, while plowing hauling manure and fertilizer are non-fixed as to time. Husking corn is semi-fixed as it may be done any time before the snow falls. Cutting corn for fodder or for the silo is fixed labor. The farmer should have his work planned ahead so that he will not have any of his non or semi-fixed operations to do when he must be doing something that is absolutely necessary. Plowing is a good example of non-fixed labor. Many discussions have been held to settle the relative value of spring and fall plowing from the standpoint of fertility, but few have considered either as to the ultization of farm labor.

In the fall there are times when there is not much fixed labor to be done. Other conditions being favorable, this is the time to plow. The spring is the busiest time of the year for horses and all work possible should be done at other times. Every farmer keeps a few extra horses for a whole year for a few weeks of extra work in the spring. All of these extra horses cannot be eliminated, but if the work was so arranged the number could be reduced and a great saving result.

Rotation Arrangements.

The rotation or the arrangement of fields and crops is generaly studied from the standpoint of fertility, but it may be a great factor in influencing the cost of horse labor. A variety of crops should be grown whose fixed operations do not come at the same time. Corn is recognized by most people to be the most profitable crop in the corn belt, and yet it is most unwise for a farmer to plant all of his land to corn. Alfalfa and corn make a good combination with reference maintaining the fertility, but the fixed operations come too near the same time to give a good distribution to the farm labor. They should be grown in connection with other crops.

To sum up, the way to reduce the cost of horse labor is to give proper feed and care and to obtain a large amount of work per horse, not by working him too hard, but by using him at times when he is now idle. This is accomplished by proper planning of the farm work and establishing suitable rotations. All this is no simple matter, but requires the careful study of the farm manager.

A TRIBUTE TO TRAVELING SALESMEN.

We hate to fool you, but we're going to.

You expect us to get funny about traveling men. We won't.

Traveling men, a fellow's mother, his church denomination—these aren't funny subjects.

Traveling men are soldiers of commerce, trading their lives for their living.

Not only that—they trade their lives for their family's and their employers' living.

Traveling men wander from place to place in cold and heat and discomfort, put up with (and for) bad accommodations, and don't kick much.

And whenever one of them sights a hotel where the proprietor treats him half way white and smiles at him and tries to have the grub clean—just tries; that's all—and really cares whether the traveling man is comfortable in his room—then you ought to hear the boosting that traveling man gives that hotel.

You'd think he was paid wages for it.

But he's not.

When the lay traveler gets all balled up in his railroad connections and does not know what to do, the traveling man pulls out his railroad guide or a bit of his own clear memory and tells the lost one how to head in or make a short cut.

He will take chances on missing a train himself to do this.

There are pinheads in this world who think traveling salesmen are fresh guys who live for the sake of flirting, gambling, etc.

These pinheads need another guess.

Most of the traveling men we know have sons and daughters, and nearly all of them have wives, of their own.

And if those wives are as square with traveling hubby as we know hubby is in nine cases out of ten cases with wife, when they are separated, the lack of virtue in this country is sadly overestimated.

Once in a while there is a traveling man who is all that the pinhead thinks they all are, but he is an exception, and he doesn't hold his job very long.

If we wanted a square deal—wanted to be sure of it, and of genuine Christian, unselfish charity thrown in, we should never hesitate to submit our case to a jury of traveling men.

We are for him, strong.

For we've met him away from home.—Indianapolis Star.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

It's War Time Aspect.

London, Feb. 13th: The women of England are doing their duty. They are taking care of the wounded, or if they cannot assist in work of that kind they are adding their savings to promote the good work. They are knitting and sewing for the soldiers at the front. The suffragists have given so little trouble to the government that it will undoubtedly soften the hearts of those in Parliament, since the "militants" have turned all their energies to aid the fighting men of England, and so sufferage may soon come after this terrible war is over.

Thousands of women in America have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of womanly ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine, though started nearly half a century ago, sells more widely today than any other womanly tonic. It can now be had in tablet form as well as liquid, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, pain at times should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce.

Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of. In ninety-nine per cent of these cases it is the womanly organism which requires attention; the weak back, dizzy spells and black circles about the eyes, are only symptoms. Go to the source of trouble and correct the irregularities, the drains on the womanly system and the other symptoms disappear.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are unequaled as a Liver Pill. Smallest, easiest to take. One tiny, Sugar-coated Pellet a Dose. Cures Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. 25 cents vial, by druggists.Adv.

EVERYONE ADMIRES THIS GOOD-LOOKING WOMAN

Wherever you go you hear people comment upon a pretty woman and it is really beautiful hair more than perfect features that gives her the appearance of charm, youth and beauty.

Any woman can merit this praise, for beautiful hair is only a matter of care. Just as a plant needs attention and nourishment so must the hair have care and nutriment to make it grow long, thick, soft, fluffy and lustrous. The scalp must be free from dandruff, and the hair roots properly nourished, as nature intended.

Parisian Sage, which is delicately perfumed and easily applied is just what is needed. It tones up and invigorates the roots of the hair and furnishes the necessary elements to make it grow long, soft, abundant and full of life.

One application of this scientific tonic removes every trace of dandruff and cleanses the hair of dust and excess oil.

Why not start now to beautify your hair by using Parisian Sage, the great tonic treatment? It is inexpensive and easily applied at home. It can be had from Coover & Shreve, or at any drug counter, and will surely work a miracle even if the hair is dandruffy, oily, faded, streaked, dull and lifeless.—Advertisement.

FRANK MANN'S SOIL BOOK

"A Fertile Soil Is The Basis of Profitable Farming"

(Authority for the publication of this and succeeding chapters of Frank Mann's book secured from Prairie Farmer Publishing Company.)

Rotten Corn.

Because of the great amount of corn grown and the length of time it has been grown, it is remarkable that there has not been some insect pest developed that would be as disastrous to the corn crop as are some of the pests to other crops. Most of the insect pests of corn that we have are quite readily controlled by easily applied methods, due to the diligent study of the problems by the entomologist. A disastrous enemy to corn which has existed for many years, and which is becoming more prevalent and injurious as the years go on, is the dry rot of corn. It is well understood that the disease is caused by fungi of the Diplodia and Fusarium species, with occasionally some bacterial injury. When the disease attacks the ear early in its period of growth, there is likely to the an undeveloped ear, and sometimes but little more than a cob. At husking time ears are found that were arrested in growth at all stages of development. Some ears show but slight progress of the disease and that the ear almost reached full maturity. Some ears show but a slight infection, as shown by the discolored cob at either the butt or tip end, according to whether the infection came from the shank or silks. Though there may be many ears where the mould has apparently destroyed the whole ear, and it appearance is only a bunch of mould, probably the greatest loss comes from the shrinkage in weight and quality of those ears which do not show much mould.

The habit of the fungus is to extend the mycelium (roots) throughout the growth, especially the grain, and abstract therefrom the nitrogenous matter, leaving the starch. Thus in consuming the most vital parts of the kernel, any ear that has the slightest infection, as shown by a discolored cob, is unfit for seed purposes. An infected ear is rarely a mature ear. It may have the general appearance of perfect maturity, but the soft and spongy cob will show otherwise. Whether the disease is the cause of immaturity; or whether the lack of maturity is the cause of the disease, is open to proof for either contention. It is a fact that the diseased ears are not mature, and that very few immature ears are free from some degree of infection.

It is generally considered that the dry rotten corn was due to some condition of the weather; that a humid atmosphere and high temperature were responsible for the trouble. But the season of 1911 was the driest for many years; when there were but a few humid days, and no heavy rainfall throughout the growing season, and there is more rot in corn than ever before. While the nature and technical causes of the disease responsible for rotten corn have been studied, not much effort has been made towards learning the measures of resistance. It does not seem to be due to constitutional reasons, as several years breeding seems to have but little effect against it. Observation and definite information secured for several years show that the disease is influenced by a better balance in the supply of the elements of plant food. It has been noticed that the rotten corn is more abundant when corn is grown on clover sod, where nitrogen was likely to be in excessive amounts as compared to other elements. This does not, however, conform to the belief that the corn stalks, etc. of the previous year are necessary sources of infection.

When a high nitrogen soil content is even partially balanced with phosphorus the effect on the disease is material. Several hundred hills from clover sod where no phosphorus had been applied, were examined with reference to infected ears, and all ears showing any infection, even to a stained cob, were counted; an equal number of hills was examined from a nearby part of the same field, to which one ton of phosphate had been added. No corn had been grown in this field for four years previous. From the untreated ground the corn that showed more or less of the disease was 40 per cent of the crop; from the treated ground the infected corn was but 15 per cent of the crop.

Corn having the dry rot has been fed more or less for years without any apparent injury to any kind of stock, but it has always been fed in connection with some highly nutritious and nitrogenous food. When the fungus has quite fully developed there remains but little of anything but the starch, and such corn makes a ration so far out of balance for animals, as to be a probable cause for numerous ailments. Such ailments should not be confused with the regular corn stalk disease, which probably is bacterial, and is not caused by the grain.

Sugar Beets.

Good crops of sugar beets have been grown on Bois d' Arc farm, and there is no question as to the ability of the soil to produce good crops of beets having a high sugar content. Growing sugar beets is essentially a labor proposition. Much of the labor required is due to the pernicious activity of that most abundant weed of the corn belt—the crab-grass. In regions where this weed abounds and where labor is also scarce, there is nothing in sugar-beet culture that commends itself to corn belt farmers.

Extravagant claims are sometimes came as to the effect of beets on soil fertility; that as sugar is only "wind and water" no draft is made on soil elements in its production. It is true that sugar contains no fertilizing elements, and where only the sugar is marketed and all residues left on the farm, as is the case on some of the German estates, no fertility leaves the farm, though there may be losses of fertilizing elements from feeding and hadling. The case is different however, when the beets are shipped to ta factory and the residues not returned to the land, as an average crop of sugar beets will remove as much of the elements of fertility from the soil as an average crop of corn.

It is also claimed that part of the comparison of growing sugar beets is realized in other crops that follow the beets. No doubt sugar beet ground is in fine physical condition for other crops. Probably most of this is due to the late fall plowing that is necessary in digging the beets, as well as to that part of the deep root system that remains in the ground. The beets themselves have no power to add any elements of fertility. It does not seem that any benefit that could accrue from a sugar beet crop to succeeding crops, would not also more largely accrue from a clover crop; and the clover crop would also have a further advantage of supplying nitrogen.

The Vegetable Garden.

There is nothing from which so much might be gained in the way of health and economy, that is so much neglected as the farmer's vegetable garden. Much of this neglect is probably because the soil of the garden is in bad physical condition and works up soggy and cloddy; and it is also often the weediest spot on the farm. Such a condition requires so much hard work to grow a little poor garden stuff that it is easier to let most of the garden go by default.

If the garden be divided into two or three parts, and one part be used for the garden and the other parts be seeded to clover, and thereafter the garden portion be otated with the clover portion, more and better garden stuff could be grown with very much less work. On most soils, if the clover portion be plowed late in the fall it would provide the calculating the hedge row to occupy two rods wide, the returns, exclusive of labor, would be $320 for one acre for ten years or $32 per acre annually. These figures may be adjusted to different conditions, and there will remain fair prospective profits. Osage posts have no competitor for durability except the cement post.

To grow good posts in a hedge row, the hedge should be permitted to grow for several years without any trimming or until the posts have grown straight and are strong enough not to bend over under the weight of the top. After this, the row should be kept trimmed on the sides, and the crooked and undesirable stakes cut out. When the row is made up into posts it is a good plan to throw the posts into a pond of water and leave them there for a few months to let them water cure. If so cured they are not eaten by borers, nor injured by check cracking, and the staples ohld better.

A wonderful demonstration in post growing is being conducted by Hon. A. N. Abbott, on his farm in Whiteside Co., Ill. He is growing large areas of black locust trees on some dune sand that is too poor to grow anything but legumes. The locust being a legume secures its own nitrogen, and is proving a valuable crop on the poor sand.

Farm Labor.

This is not intended to be any solution for the scarcity of competent farm labor, which is due to some economic conditions that cannot be solved so easily. There is seed of competent labor to be transferred from the cities to the country, and only such as can be termed good is wanted, nor will any other succeed. But this class of workers in the city have been accustomed to business hours, and business habits, and can see nothing attractive in farm life, where during the hired man season, every thing is hurried from sun up till sun down, at it once was. To work from dark to dark is not business, nor does it pay. Neither men nor horses can stand it if good work is to be done all the time. In a day of nine or ten hours in the field, with but few chores to do before and after, men and teams will accomplish more good work, and the men can feel like human beings and the horses can feel their oats. If more brains were put in the business there would be less need for muscle and such long hours.

SOCIOLOGISTS MEET AT BOSTON

Boston, April 12.—Sociologists from many parts of the country gathered at Ford Hall today, under the auspices of the Ford Hall Foundation. The meeting was the second annual conference of the Open Forum Council. It was pointed out that there are hundreds of open forums throughout the country established on the same basis as that of the late Daniel Sharpe Ford, who, in his will left a fortune for the establishment of a common ground on which the people might meet "to soften the inevitable differences between capital and labor."

CENTURY OLD FIRMS TO DINE.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 12.—Members of 40 firms in the eastern states that are over a century old and have passed down in family succession, will dine next week. Burnet Landreth of Bristol, Pa., is president of the antediluvian firms which will celebrate. It is estimated there are only 150 firms in the United States that have survived a century. That unique society known as the Centennary Association does not admit all of them to membership. Descent in direct male line for a full 100 years is necessary for admission, and the number this year is two score.

SICK, SOUR STOMACH, INDIGESTION OR GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Upset Stomachs Feel Fine in Five Minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary. —Advertisement.

THAW CASE UP AGAIN.

New York, April 12.—Arguments on motions in the case of Harry Thaw, the murderer of Stanford White, who seeks his liberty to depart from New York State and is fighting against re-ommittal to Matteawan Asylum, are set for today. His lawyers claim his detention is in violation of the state constitution and the federal constitution, in that he is deprived of his liberty without due course of law. His detention is held to be in violation of the provisions for the extradition of fugitives frm one state to another. The petition before the court contends that Thaw, having been acquitted of conspiracy in connection with his escape from Matteawan to New Hampshire, the only charge on which he could be extradited, was entitled to reasonable time to return to New Hampshire.

What They Say About Prairie Farmer's Hog Book.

Quotations from letter from C. A. Rowe, Jacksonville, Ills. Morgan county.

"The Prairie Farmer Hog Book is concise, attractive and practical."

You are to be congratulated on getting out such a high class piece of work as PRAIRIE FARMER'S HOG BOOK. I want every man in the office here to have a copy.

Iowa Experiment Station.
John M. Evvard.

I am going to build some of the self-feeders described in PRAIRIE FARMER'S HOG BOOK for use on our country farm. This plan of feeding looks good to me.

W. G. Eckhardt, County Advisor, DeKalb County, Ill.

Clifford V. Gregory, editor of the PRAIRIE FARMER, Chicago, has written a splendid little hand book on hogs that is exactly what it purports to be—"Common sense suggestions that will help any farmer to make more money from his hogs."

The Banker-Farmer.

I just received your HOG BOOK. It is par excellence; just fine.
McLean Co., Ill. W. D. Jones.

I have just received the HOG BOOK and find it very valuable.
Will Co., Ill. Jas. Craig.

PRAIRIE FARMER'S HOG BOOK is an exceedingly practical and useful little book and is admirably gotten out. I congratulate you on its publication.

COCOANUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

FIFTY YEARS AS "KNIGHT OF THE GRIP"

The following address was given by John M. DePew at the annual banquet of the Travelers' Protective association held at the Dunlap hotel Saturday night:

Your gracious invitation to Mrs. DePew and myself to be your guests at this banquet is most highly appreciated by each of us. I feel it a great honor indeed, to be the senior man in this service in a body of men who rank as high as the traveling men of this state.

This is my 50th year as a "Knight of the Grip", and I have been on the road every month of each of these years. As I seldom travel less than 600 miles per week, and often more, I have easily traveled over 1,560,000 miles, which is perhaps the record as a passenger paying for transportation. Have been exceedingly fortunate in that I have never been in a serious accident.

I have personally known and traveled with every passenger conductor in regular service on the Alton railroad since the beginning of its train service. For many years I was acquainted with a greater number of traveling men working Illinois territory than any other salesman. But 50 years is a long time and most of my friends of the early days have "passed away" or have given up the road, so that as far as I know there is not a single man on the road now who was there when I began. None of my early employers are living today. At times in these days there is a feeling of lonesomeness when I am thinking of these old friends and do not meet a single traveling man I know in several days.

Then and Now.

But "Then and Now" in the service. There were but few railroads in Illinois and fewer in the other states. Trains ran many hours apart. Bloomington, Springfield and Decatur each had a total of eight trains daily except Sunday. The Wabash with four trains and the road to Alton with a train in each direction were the trains into Jacksonville. None of the roads ran Sunday trains. Beardstown, Winchester, Greenfield, Waverly, Palmyra, Chesterfield, Virginia, Petersburg, Greenview, Mason City, Delavan, Pekin, Streator, Taylorville, Monticello, Mt. Pulaski, Griggsville, Pittsfield and other towns along the railroads now reaching these cities were without railroad facilities of any kind, hence were reached by slow-going stage coaches or livery.

Five Cents Per Mile.

The fare was five cents per mile. No ticket sold beyond the road issuing ticket. The conductor would go through his train to collect transportation with twenty dollars or more in small bills wrapped about the fingers of his left hand, for use in making change, as many passengers paid fare on the train. Sometimes as a bluff, a passenger would hand up a $50 gold piece or $100 bill for the conductor to take out a 60c or 80c fare. He would be surprised at the quick disappearance of his big money and the hand full of small bills he would get back for change, with a "thank you" from the conductor, and the remark that it was just the kind of money he was looking for.

The first 1000 mile tickets used were about the size of a postal card, with figures 1 to 15 printed around the edges in sufficient number to make 1000. These were punched out by the conductor for the trip and were good only on road issuing same. They cost $30, no rebate.

A cigar or 25 to 50 cents usually settled excess baggage charges, no storage charges, but baggage left for six months was sold at auction.

Passenger Cars.

The passenger cars of that day seated 40 to 44 persons, were lighted with candles and heated with small wood stoves in each end. In severe weather the passengers took turns getting close to the stove to warm. All trains were stopped with hand brakes. Even the car service on the Keokuk branch of the Wabash does not cause one to desire those old cars again.

There were no sleeping, parlor or dining cars fifty years ago. All trains stopped twenty minutes for meals, which were 75 cents straight. The first sleeping car was built in Bloomington by the Chicago & Alton and was owned by that company. George M. Pullman was the first sleeping car conductor. I rode with him on his first trip and many other times on these cars. They were not very comfortable, the rate was high, and they were never run over any other road.

Some Comparisons.

Compare this with the famous "Alton Limited", the steel trains of the Illinois Central, the Continental Limited on the Wabash and the Dixie Flyer on the C. & E. I. and the splendid trains on most of the railroads of today, with sleeping and chair cars, parlor and dining cars, with all the comforts of the first class hotel "while you ride", and the Interurbans with hourly service, then you will see what progress has been made in this respect during these years. I hope many of you will yet travel in "modern cars" over the Burlington and C. P. into Jacksonville, and that some of our Interurbans may be more than "scraps of paper" ere long.

Hotels of Community.

Then there are the hotels. The Dunlap was then (as now) the banner hotel in the state outside of Chicago, the St. Nicholas at Springfield was second. The two hotels are still ranked as first class. The 3d was the Ashley House at Bloomington, the fourth the Peoria House and the fifth the Revere in Decatur. These last three were destroyed by fire. Another famous hotel of that day was the Doane House at Champaign.

The usual hotel of that day, however, was lighted with candles, but few of the "modern" ones had progressed as far as oil lamps. The heat in winter was from the office, dining room and kitchen stoves, only an occasional room had a stove. The preferred rooms were, first, with a stove and a "hat" ful of fire; second, with flue from office, dining room or kitchen through them. The charge for fire was 50 cents extra, chimney heat free. Many a time I have gone to bed with my boots on and overcoat too, to be awakened a little later by a traveling friend from an adjoining room, wanting to get in with me, as he was so cold he could not sleep. In the morning, nearly frozen, we would go down to the office, break up the ice in the bucket to get a little ice water with which to take a wash, and then the breakfast, but never mind that.

There were no restaurants or lunch counters in those days, and if a man was late for the hotel meal hour, it was crackers and cheese at the "corner grocery" or nurse your hunger until the next meal hour rolled around.

There were no street cars, street lights or water works system, no street pavements, electric lights, no steam or hot water heat, no telephone and but few walks, always of boards, 50 years ago.

Compare these conditions with the public improvements of today and the Leland at Springfield, the Jefferson at Peoria, the Illinois at Bloomington, the Inman at Champaign, the Paillip at Assumption, with steam heat, elevators, bath, etc., even with the many splendid little hotels in our smaller towns and you will easily see the advantage "Now" over "Then."

Some Former Advantages.

There were some advantages in those days, however. No itemized expense accounts were required. Then, the traveling man was expected to be a "salesmanager" and to get the business, not only by personal effort, but to use his own judgment in making prices that would get the business. We were not just order takers, using stereotyped prices made by expert accountants in the employ of large concerns and furnished the salesmen in printed form by the "Salesmanager" of the house.

The usual time to get over the territory was 4 to 8 weeks, with no going home until the entire trip was completed. The 5 cent fare few trains, with consequent expense and loss of time would not permit of week-end trips home.

In these 50 years I have had many experiences, among them the taking of the first order by a traveling salesman for goods to be shipped to the towns of Streator and Mason City. Was a passenger on the first train to be run over the road between Gilman and Springfield; on the first train out of Pekin on the old I. B. & W. Railway to Bloomington and the east; on the first train out of Pekin on the Pekin, Lincoln and Decatur road; on the first train out of Bloomington on the Lake Erie & Western and on the first train out of Peoria on the old Illinois Midland (Vandalia).

Old Time Druggists.

There are four druggists now living and in business, from whom I took an order on my first trip

H. Swannell, Champaign; C. A. McGregor, Pontiac; T. C. Grimshaw, Pittsfield; Allen Bradley, Mason City

Champaign is the only one of these places in my present territory, and I still call on Mr. Swannell. So far as I know, these are the only four men alive, who were in the drug business in the territory I first traveled.

Characters of Men of Grip.

As to the men on the road then and now, I would say that in mental caliber, energy and efficiency the difference is not marked. In education and social standing the advantage is with the men of today and this is essential to success under present day conditions. The staying qualities and aggressiveness would probably be in favor of the men of the times when I first sold goods on the road. Courtesy, promptness and honesty then and now, are essentials in every business transaction. These coupled with hard work bring success. From my long association with them, I find traveling men as a class to be alert and self dependent; they are true hustlers, and measure up to as high standards in intelligence, integrity, morality, aggressiveness and benevolence as the men in any line of business, the arts, sciences and professions, politics or any calling in the commercial and industrial life of today.

Again thanking you for the courtesies extended to Mrs. DePew and myself, I wish to assure you that in the remaining years that are allotted to us we will retain the pleasant memories of this evening, and the many acts of kindness shown us. We wish for all of you a profitable business, and that good health, good cheer and happiness may be your lot and that of all your loved ones. May the T. P. A. continue to be a great benefit, both socially and in a business way to the traveling men of the land is my parting word.

REGISTER TODAY.

This is the last day for registration for the election which is to be held next Tuesday. Voters must go in person in order to get their names on the list if not already there. All should see to it that their names are enrolled.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.
(By Associated Press).

Berlin—Something of a parallel to the notorious case of "The Captain of Copenick" has resulted in a sentence to ten years imprisonment for "Dr. Edward Alexander" for use of a false name and forged credentials as to title, on the strength of which he was elected mayor of the town of Koslin in 1913. He had been serving the deluded citizens of Koslin as mayor ever since. In reality "Dr. Alexander" was Henry Thormann, an East Prussian forger.

With no attempt to deny that the whole affair was humiliating, the prosecutor of "Dr. Alexander" admitted that consternation had been aroused at finding that it was possible for anyone in Prussia to attain public office without absolute proofs of his identity. Incidentally he declared steps must be taken to make it impossible in the future. In common with many others he had believed the Copenick case had forever put a stop to such deception.

Thormann as a boy got into trouble and thereby forfeited his right to compete in the public schools for the one-year service in the army which is open to those educationally qualified. He forged himself a certificate. For this he was sentenced to pay a fine of 4,000 marks. Unable to pay the fine he disappeared from his home town, reappearing in various Berlin suburbs later. Soon there was added to the educational certificate that of "Doctor of Philosophy," procured summa cum laude. Its origin was similar to the first.

This title palled after a time: Also pursuit threatened. Thormann therefore disappeared again, and bobbed up in Koslin as "Dr. Edward Alexander, L. L. W." His charming manner disarmed suspicion. No one asked for credentials. He married, under a somewhat awe-inspiring title, but the marriage was nullified.

Eventually he was chosen mayor. He became engaged to the daughter of a prominent family but made the mistake of forming an alliance with another young woman at the some time. Also he contracted a habit of borrowing money from his first fiancee, which she loaned him until she discovered that she had a rival. Then she instituted an investigation that proved altogether too searching for the mayor.

After unsuccessfully maintaining that Thormann was insane, his counsel advanced the plea that he should be freed because he was a "genius." The prosecution was not quite willing to admit this, notwithstanding Thormann's success, and asked for eight years imprisonment for him. This so displeased Thormann that he denounced the prosecutor, the court, the jury and his own attorney quite impartially. Impressed with his remarks, the judge imposed a sentence of 10 years.

One of the puzzling problems with which the German authorities in charge of prisoners of war have had to deal is the failure of many of these prisoners to notify their relatives of their whereabouts. As a consequence it is being discovered constantly that men, particularly Englishmen, who are prisoners of war or are in hospitals, have long been given up as dead.

To minimize the difficulty the Doeberitz authorities have printed quantities of post cards which bear in big, black type the words: "My address is: Gefangenenlager Doeberitz Deutschland (Prison camp, Doeberitz, Germany.)" Every prisoner is encouraged to write home so that his people may know his whereabouts.

New York—Relief is becoming common in Serbia that the fast-spreading and fatal typhus there is communicated not only by vermin but by simple contagion through the air breathed, according to a letter from Mme. Voya Marionkovitch, wife of the Serbian Minister of Agriculture. She reports that the Serbian Army continues generally untouched by the fever, but its ravages among the Austrian prisoners and civilians of all classes all over Macedonia and Serbia continue without abatement. The letter is to her sister, Mlle. Helene Losanitch, who is now in New York in the interests of Serbian relief.

"They say it is a dirt disease," she writes, "and yet so many of the cases are those of persons who frequently bathe and use antiseptics, that one is forced to believe the contagion is in the very air we breathe. After every precaution has been taken in hospitals, and stricken persons isolated, the wounded as well as doctors and nurses continue to fall ill."

Mme. Marionkovitch reports the death of Mme. Lukovitch, President of the Serbian Circle of Sisters, who contracted typhus while on a visit of inspection to the hospitals at Valyevo. Although during her illness she knew she was condemned to death, she did not once complain, but died as heroic a woman as she had lived, says the writer.

"We greatly fear," she continued, "that during the hot weather the disease will spread as it did during the Bulgarian war. All our hope lies in the Rockefeller Commission, which, as you know, came out to investigate conditions. They have promised to recommend that the Rockefeller Foundation and the American Red Cross send us a Sanitary Commission composed of bacteriologists, and of doctors and nurses skilled in treating tropical diseases. Please while you are in America send us reports which have been published in any of the medical papers of work done in conection with typhus or other tropical diseases. It would be of great use to our doctors if these could be translated into Serbian."

TO ST. LOUIS FOR THE BAPTISMAL CEREMONY

Basil Geneatoos, proprietor of the Jacksonville Candy company, went to St. Louis yesterday with his family for the purpose of having his infant child baptised. The ceremony is to be performed by a priest of the Greek Catholic church. The ceremony is somewhat unique in that the entire body is immersed. Basil Geneatoos, Jr., is to be best man. Aault members of the orthodix Greek Catholic church have the same ceremony performed also. Thousands go from Russia to Jerusalem, kiss the stone of anointment at the reputed tomb of the church of the Holy Sepulcher and then repair to the river Jordan where they remove their clothing, put on a shroud in which they are immersed in the river and then retain the shroud for a burial robe.

SPEAKS AT GRACE CHURCH.

Miss Winifred E. Muir, returned missionary from China, gave a most interesting address at the Grace church yesterday afternoon at four o'clock. The address was given at that hour to enable any school children who might wish to attend to do so. A number of different costumes of the people of China were shown and the afternoon proved a profitable one.

WORLD'S MARKET NEWS

BULLS HAVE ADVANTAGE IN WHEAT; CLOSE SHOWS GAIN

Exporters Buy New Crop Futures and it is Apparent Cargoes of old Crop Would Soon be Moving Freely Over the Great Lakes.

Chicago, April 12.—Bulls had the advantage today in wheat. Exporters were buying new crop futures and it was apparent that cargoes of the old crop would soon be moving freely over the great lakes. The market closed unsettled, but ⅜c to 2¾c above Saturday night's level. Corn finished ⅛c off to ⅛@¼c up, oats down ¼c to ¼@⅝c and provisions varying from 15c decline to shade advance.

Knowledge that the last of the sea raiders was out of the way for the present seemed to have considerable effect on sentiment favoring higher prices for wheat, the idea being that shipments would be safer and the insurance risk less. This theory was in a measure confirmel by a rush of eastern orders to purchase here, especially the July delivery in which fully nine-tenths of the business was centered. Higher prices at Liverpool with reports that the amount of wheat on ocean passage had fallen off to a material extent helped further to encourage a speculative advance. Vesel agents here were in receipt of word that the straits of Mackinac had become free from ice and the way opened for grain fleets to start from Duluth, Chicago and other ports. It was announced however, that marine insurance would not begin until April 15th. The fact that the decrease of the United States visible supply turned out to be smaller than expected was responsible for a moderate setback in the last hour of the session. Corn advanced at first with wheat but country offerings grew larger and there were reports that an important industry had stopped buying at St. Louis. On the other hand, Chicago stocks and the visible supply gave evidence that a heavy movement was in progress. Holders of oats unloaded rather freely after corn turned weak.

Previously sellers were scarce, despite favorable weather for seeding.

IRREGULARITY IS DOMINANT NOTE OF THE STOCK MARKET

Course of Prices Suggest a Renewal of Bearish Aggression—Unsettlement is Most Pronounced in the Final Hour.

New York, April 12.—Irregularity, which bordered upon reaction towards the close, was the dominant note of today's stock market. Trading was active enough at all times to indicate that speculative interests were still in control but the course of prices suggested not only further selling for profits by home and foreign interests but a renewal of bearish aggression as well.

Unsettlement was most pronounced in the final hour when Bethlehem Steel once more became the center of a feverish buying movement, which sent the price up to 125 or 8 points above its previous record.

As heretofore no reasonable explanation for the rise was obtainable and stock market observers ascribed the move as a further driving in of the shorts.

United States steel held its recently acquired prominence for the greater part of the session with another heavy total of individual transactions. At its best it sold within 1 points of last week's high price but in common with the general list fell back in the final dealings.

Others like Union Pacific, Reading and some of the dividend paying shares failed to equal recent high quotations, Amalgamated copper being the only important exception. Metal shares as a whole were firm; Great Northern Ore Ctfs, manifesting especial strength. Motor shares were noteworthy for their heaviness with losses from 2 to over 4 points. Other industrials and specialties moved unevenly with offsetting gains and losses.

Missouri Pacific reflected increasing belief in adjustment of the company's forthcoming obligations, but Rock Islands moved languidly in the absence of definite advices respecting the outcome of the shareholders' meeting in Chicago.

SERVICES FOR MRS. CONN WERE LARGELY ATTENDED

Many Gather at Methodist Church in Prentice for Funeral of Mrs. Ruth Hall Conn, Former Resident of Morgan County.

Friends in large number from all portions of the county were present at the Prentice M. E. church Friday afternoon for the funeral of Mrs. Ruth Hall Conn, wife of E. V. Conn, who passed away at her home in Emerado, N. D., the Monday previous. Services were announced for two o'clock, with the Rev. M. L. Pontius, pastor of Central Christian church, Jacksonville, in charge. Quartet selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. George Dewees, Miss Lorine Dewees and Mr. Hall and Mrs. Fred Walbaum of Petersburg sang a solo. The flowers were cared for by Misses Nellie Creed, Enid Hubbs, Mabel Vancil, Mabel Walter, Starr Boston and Louise Boston. The bearers were Byron Weakley, Carl Weakley, Charles Eddings, Earl Holmes, George Petit and Henry Renfrow.

Ruth Irene Hall, daughter of Arthur and Margaret Hall, was born in Prentice, Ill., Sept. 15, 1891. Here, in the village of her birth, she grew to womanhood; a girl admired and loved by all the community. An apt and brilliant scholar, she completed the course in her home school with high honors, and secured the scholarship to Illinois College at Jacksonville, where she remained a student for two years. She also spent several years in the study of music, at the Illinois Woman's college.

On Nov. 12, 1911 she united with Central Christian church of Jacksonville, and throughout her life remained an active worker for the Master. On Feb. 2, 1914 she was married to E. V. Conn, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. William E. Boston, where she had made her home while in Jacksonville.

Immediately after their marriage the young couple moved to a farm near Emerado, North Dakota, where they have since resided. Only a little over a year of happy married life was allotted to them however. When the young wife was stricken with pneumonia, followed by appendicitis, and after a brief illness, passed away at her home in North Dakota, Monday afternoon, April 5, 1915, at 3:13 o'clock.

Mrs. Conn leaves her husband, E. V. Conn, an infant daughter, Margaret, her parents and one brother, Frank Hall, besides many near relatives and a host of friends. She was a member of Rebekah lodge, No. 13, Jacksonville, and the Court of Honor of Prentice, Ill.

"We grieve for life's bright promise
Just shown, and then withdrawn,
But still God's love surrounds us,
The star of hope shines on.
And in the sunshine streaming
Of quiet wood and lea,
We listen to the message
He speaks to you and me."

We have just received a shipment of new wash skirts in all materials. They are now on sale at a big reduction in price.

THE EMPORIUM.

NEW CONCRETE WALK

A new concrete walk is being laid on the north side of the square from the store of Andre & Andre to the corner. The owner of the corner building accupied by S. S. Knoles' clothing store is Miss Lou McDonald, T. M. Tomlinson owns the one he occupies and the Misses M. and A. Wadsworth own the next. The work is being done by Otis Hoffman and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible. The stone flags now composing the walk are being broken with sledge hammers and cast aside. Concrete is coming to the front as the best matrial for walks and this is an enterprise for which the owners of the several buildings are to be commended.

LITERBERRY.

We heard of a leading clothier and a leading furniture merchant of Jacksonville starting to Virginia last Friday in a baby carriage, but were detained at Shady Oaks where they left their little machine in the care of C. P. Henderson.

We are well acquainted with these two merchants and can testify to their good qualifications as the most progressive men doing business in the city of Jacksonville, also that their repu ation as perfect gentlemen, is thoroughly established all over two or three counties; but their many friends are guessing what the cause could be, or what species of bug could have gotten into their beans, to induce them to start on a trip across country in a baby carriage. There are various explanations, excuses, theories and presumptions put forth by the friends of these two wise men. Some think the fall of the world's champion, over on the island the other day, jarred the tendons of the grey matter of their craniums, causing a leakage of intellect; others think the long dry spell had affected their minds to such an extent that they thought it would never rain again; others think the whole trouble rested on the conditions of their surroundings, having been citizens of the livest town in the livest state for so long a time that they thought they could go the distance on the reputation of their town. We are not worrying over the mistake, we know why they failed, they should have taken a Mitchell, see We are glad to report the fact that our friends were well taken care of, while waiting for their train back home. The baby carriage is still at Shady Oaks, where it will be cared for, but the clothing merchant wants it distinctly understood that it was not a "Rocky Ford."

The Rosebud class of the Baptist Sunday school, presided over by Mrs. M. O. Petefish, were each made happy on Sunday morning by the gift of a fine box of Easter candy from their teacher.

Mrs. C. W. Phelps of Breezy Point still continues sick. Her friends are hoping for a turn for the better and a speedy recovery.

Professor H. E. Underbrink of Havana, is in Literberry visiting Mr. and Mrs. Earl Underbrink and Mildred.

Mrs. Robert McFarland of Railroad street, was called to Chandlerville on Wednesday by the serious illness of her aged mother. Mrs. Robert McFarland, Jr., of Virginia is at the McFarland home, helping Miss Mary to keep house, during her mother's absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Chapman of Walnut Villa, are rejoicing over the birth of a pretty little girl, the seven brothers, also are proud of their baby sister.

Rev. F. M. Crabtree, of Winchester, came up Sunday morning to fill the place of Rev. W. R. Johnson, at the Baptist church, which he did to the satisfaction of all who heard him. He preached an excellent sermon on "the unused power of the church;" a communion service followed, at which most every one present took part. Brother Crabtree also preached in the evening.

Mrs. Verdie Thompson of Jacksonville is now stopping in Literberry, watching the growth and progress of that little daughter, that came last week to make her home at Maple Mound.

FIGHT FOR ROCK ISLAND CONTROL

New York, April 12.—The annual meeting of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Road, which is to be held today, promises to be the scene of a lively fight for control of the road. The big railroad that has been the bone of contention for many years between financial interests, the tool of stock manipulators, and an all-round enigma in railroading, will either fall under the control of the minority stockholders today, or be retained by the present active management, which has the backing of a powerful group of financiers. The ousting of the Moore-Reid interests from control was accomplished last winter. Since then a committee of minor stockholders, headed by R. L. Amster of Boston, has been breaking all precedents by waging a campaign for proxies of stock-holders for today's meeting. So bitter became the fight that the vice president of the railroad, John J. Quinlan, was prosecuted by the Amster committee for refusing access to the railway's stock books. Although the officials were not held responsible by the courts, the Amster committee was allowed to see the books under the court's order.

The Rock Island management took a hand in the fight for control of the road, the heads of the operating, traffic and financial departments forming a committee to this end. These men had been in active control of the practical operation for years, and were not identified with the Reid-Moore coterie.

The third committee which went out for proxies for today's meeting is known as the Sheldon committee, headed by E. W. Sheldon, a New York banker.

The minority stock-holders' committee is quoted as being optimistic of victory at today's annual meeting of stockholders. They have put a slate of new directors, which, if elected, they claim will be held strictly accountable for the handling of the railroad and its finances.

TAXES! TAXES! TAXES!

CITY SIDE OF RATE HEARING TO BEGIN NEXT THURSDAY

Utility Commissioner Has Fixed Date for Taking Evidence in Jacksonville Elextric and Gas Case.

A number of Jacksonville citizens will go to Springfield Thursday when Commissioner Shaw of the public utilities commission will begin the hearing of the Jacksonville side of the rate reduction case. It will be remembered that some months ago the petition for reduction in rates was filed and subsequently the utility company was ordered to prepare an inventory of its property. After the inventory, which is a very voluminous document, had been filed evidence was taken during two sessions on behalf of the railway and light company. Since that time engineers for the utilities commission have been checking over the company's inventory, and have also made inspection of the company's property here. The stress of other matters has prevented any further hearing, but Thursday has now been fixed upon as the time when the city may begin the presentation of evidence in support of the claim that local rates are not as low as they should be. The city will be represented by John J. Reeve of this city and Mr. Stevens of the firm of Herndon & Stevens, of Springfield.

Francis M. Brewer Candidate for Commissioner

Francis M. Brewer came to Morgan county thirty-two years ago and has lived here in the county twenty-one years. For eleven years he was a resident of Waverly, where he was a member of the city council, and for four years he was employed at Jacksonville state hospital, then known as Central Illinois hospital. Two years ago Mr. Brewer again became a Jacksonville citizen and is proprietor of the Dunlap hotel. Mr. Brewer has a son who is a student at Illinois college, and a daughter who is enrolled at Illinois Woman's college.

In a circular letter recently issued to citizens, this candidate states that his family pays an annual rental in Jacksonville of more than $3,000, and can, therefore, be ranked as interested in Jacksonville affairs. In the campaign for commissioner Mr. Brewer followed somewhat unique methods. He made little stir on the surface in his campaign, but went from house to house delivering a printed open letter in which he outlined very clearly the principles on which he stands. He made visits to scores of Jacksonville homes and thus conducted a very personal campaign. He recently issued a second circular letter in which he again emphasized the principles on which he thinks the proper public service is founded, and has declared that if elected to office that he will allways be found on the job and willing to use his best efforts to carry into effect every promise made in his open letters.

Mr Brewer was the first candidate to come out boldly and state his position as unalterably opposed to the saloon interests, and he also declared for stict economy in the management of all the city departments. As an evidence of his belief in economy, Mr. Brewer has in his second letter re-affirmed his original statement that he favors a reduction of salaries for mayor and city commissioners. He also states that he believes some of the appointive offices should be abolished, but that present salaries of appointive officers should not be lowered. While a resident of Waverly Mr. Brewer was a member of the city council for two years.

ANTEDILUVIANISM AND THE DELUGE

There was a large and interested audience at the First Baptist church on Sunday morning as the pastor, the Rev. Percy W. Stephens, gave the fourth of his special series of lecture-sermons on the topic, "Through the Bible". These sermons are proving to be most popular, the use of the large colored diagram being not only a unique feature, but a great help to the listeners.

The subject of the morning was "Antediluvianism and the Deluge". The subject next Sunday morning will be "Ethnography", or "The Origin of Nations and of Languages" and will cover about 427 years of history, the period of time from the flood to the calling out of Abraham as father of the Jewish nation.

In dealing with the subject of "Antediluvianism" which covered a period of about 1656 years, Mr. Stephens pointed out that the posterity of Cain and the posterity of Seth, the latter being born to take the place of murdered Abel, gives us two distinct developments of human life. The posterity of Cain, the murderer, finds its climax in Lamech who was also a murderer, the seventh man from Adam through Cain. Lamech was seen to be a polygamist, an anarchist, and an atheist, and the speaker showed the vivid similarity between Lamech and the Mormons of today, pointing out that the latter are believers in polygamy, that their founders advised the extirpation of Gentiles who would not become Mormons, and that they are atheistic in that they reject the God of the Bible, believing that Adam is the God of this world. The posterity of Cain shows the children of darkness in their growth and apostasy.

The posterity of Seth shows the growth of the children of light, with Enoch as the seventh from Adam in sharp contrast to Lamech, for Enoch "walked with God" and was translated.

In course of time the line of demarkation between these two branches of human development grew less distinct, until the children of Seth, spoken of as "sons of God" in Genesis 6:2, are seen engaging in the polygamous practices which characterized Lamech, and the result was that human sin worked itself out to such a head of corruption, that God had to purge the earth with the flood, saving only Noah, his wife and three sons with their wives.

During this period of 1656 years God had given no law to mankind, and no form of government had been instituted. It is generally spoken of as "The Age of Conscience", and shows that it is not safe to trust the conscience, unless that conscience is submitted to the will of God. It is safer to trust in God and in the work of Christ as Noah trusted the ark of God's provision.

Birthday Surprise for Frank Votsmier.

A very enjoyable event took place Sunday, April 11, at the hospitable home of Frank Votsmier, a mile north of Ashland. Sunday being the thirty-eighth birthday of Mr. Votsmier a very pleasant surprise was planned by his wife and a few intimate friends. On account of the inclement weather several of the invited guests could not attend, but about forty guests gathered about noon, when a very sumptuous dinner was served. The most enjoyable feature was that the five brothers were all seated at the table, an event which has not happened for over twenty years, and it was needless to say they all enjoyed being together. Games and music furnished amusement for the day. All present had a very enjoyable time and departed for their homes late in the evening, wishing Mr. Votsmier many more happy birthdays.

COUNCIL HELD BRIEF SESSION MONDAY MORNING

Polling Place for District Number Seven Will Not Be Changed—Officials Will Attend Rate Hearing.

The city council session Monday morning, like practically all which have been held during recent weeks, was very brief. All the members were present. Mr. Knollenberg reported that Mrs. Ferguson who had been talking of making an exchange of some property she owned for some city property in the vicinity of Mauvaisterre creek, had sold her holdings and that the new owner feels favorably inclined toward making the proposed change. The exchange of equities would give the city all of its holdings on this side of the Mauvaisterre, whereas now a small tract is owned on the north side in addition to that on the south side.

Mr. Engel reported that he and Mr. Newman had taken up the matter of changing the polling place of No. 7 from the court house to the David Prince school, and that an opinion had been secured from the attorney general that it would not be proper to change the polling place after registration had been held there. Mr. Newman subsequently stated that Attorney J. O. Priest had looked into the matter and was of the opinion that the city council could instruct the judges to change the voting place and if they did not do so, could remove the judges and appoint others. Mayor Davis said that one of the judges had told him that he would refuse to make the change and the mayor doubted if it would be wise for the city to go to the expense of mandamus proceedings to bring about the change.

Mr. Newman thought the present polling place was not fit for women voters and he therefore made a motion that the council instruct the judges to change to the David Prince school. There was no second to this motion.

An ordinance was read, presented by Mayor Davis, for releasing certain lands in Diamond Grove cemetery. The purpose of the deed is to make possible the union of cemetery lots belonging to the Cherry estate, A. P. Vasconcellos and David Estaque.

It was agreed by common consent that the mayor and commissioners will go to Springfield Thursday to attend the hearing before the public utilities commission when the city will be given a chance to present evidence in support of its contention that rates for gas and electricity should be lower in Jacksonville.

FORMER JACKSONVILLE WOMAN CRITICALLY ILL IN LOUISIANA

Mrs. A. J. Sullivan, Formerly Miss Lizzie Ferguson, Teacher at Deaf Near Death's Door—House Catches on Fire Where She Lives.

(Special to Journal.)

Baton Rouge, La., April 12.—Mrs. Andrew J. Sullivan, formerly Miss Lizzie Ferguson of Jacksonville, Ill., now the wife of A. J. Sullivan of the Institute for Deaf and Dumb, located at Baton Rouge, La., is critically ill in her home opposite the Institution.

Some weeks ago, Mrs. Sullivan contracted grippe and before she had entirely recovered suffered an acute attack of Erysipelas. So serious was her condition that she was taken to the Baton Rouge Sanitarium for treatment. The disease soon yielded to medical skill and she returned to her home about ten days ago it was thought practically well, however complications developed and her life is now despaired of.

While lying in this conditions the house was discovered to be on fire which originated in a china closet built in the wall. A servant sent to get a silver spoon from the closet struck a match and it is thought carelessly dropped it, the flames set fire to the paper which decorated the shelves and afterwards spread to the papered walls. The alarm of fire was instantly sent in and the fire department soon responded, extinguishing the flames before they spread to the room where Mrs. Sullivan was lying battling with death wholly unconscious of the terrible fight being enacted in the adjoining room.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Sullivan was Miss Lizzie Ferguson and she taught in the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Jacksonville, Ill., for a number of years and was held in the highest esteem by the entire faculty.

Prior to her illness she taught in the Illinois School for the Deaf of this city where she is greatly loved by the whole school over which a pall has been thrown by her serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan were married some five years ago in Chicago, Ill., but since that time have made their home in the south.
